

SOLARIS

A satirical adventure at the epicenter of universal chaos

THE STORY

You are not human. You are a construct created for a specific purpose—details of which, naturally, someone forgot to provide. Your existence begins with a million-ton spacecraft crashing toward you. To your surprise, a serene voice echoing in your mind casually stops the massive ship inches from your face before tossing it back into the void.

"As it turns out, the planet you've landed on has become the epicenter of a space-time anomaly on an inter-universal scale. And YOU are the one who must save everyone. Or at least try not to break everything further."

Explore this insane world through the lens of absurd sci-fi. Your goal isn't just to "defeat a boss," but to understand the mechanics of this broken reality and figure out why every subsequent planet is such a dump.

KEY FEATURES

Tactile Feedback: You can press buttons! Truly revolutionary!

Locomotion: Walk and jump using cutting-edge limb technology.

Reality Bending: Hop between parallel worlds and rewrite cause-and-effect chains. Easy.

Narrative: Witty dialogues, eccentric characters, and an original story inspired by "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy."

CONTROLS

W / A / S / D

Move through 3D space

SPACE

Jump (gravity permitting)

MOUSE

Camera rotation (gaze upon the chaos)

0 / 1 / 2...

Select dialogue options

Q

Shift between worlds (with caution)

V

Zoom (experimental feature)

PLEASE FINISH THE GAME TO THE VERY END!

Powered by Godot Engine | Inspired by Douglas Adams